WALL STREET IS NOW QUIET

PEOPLE FROM ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTRY WANT TO SELL N. P.

All Want Highest Prices—Some Stipulating Five Hundred or Nothing.
By Wire to The Telegram.

New York, May 10.—The local market opened rather quiet but well above yesterdays close. The important gains were fourteen St. Paul, five in Union Pacific, four in Louisville and Nashville, nine and half in Delaware Hudson. The only decline was Southern Railway common two and one half, while preferred advanced two and one eighth.

From all over the country telegrams poured in on the bankers today offering small sized blocks of Northern Pacific common for sale. All of them wanted the highest prices, some stipulating five hundred or nothing. All were politely informed that sales could only be made at one hundred and fifty. Jackson Bros. Consolidated Exchange members failed.

McKINLEY IN CALIFORNIA

He Reviews a Floral Parade and is Showered With California Confetti.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 9.—From a broad blue canopied pavilion, surrounded by members of his cabinet, the Governor of Ohio and notables from many States, President McKinley today reviewed the floral parade of the Los Angeles carnival. The city was packed. The population of Los Angeles, according to the census, is more than 100,000, but the streets must have held almost twice as many today. Pasadena, Santa Monica and other neighboring towns in southern California were literally depopulated. The scene on Broadway, where the reviewing stand was located, resembled Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington on the day of an inaugural parade. Every facade flamed with bunting, flags and pampas grass plumes, red, green and orange, the colors of the fiesta, prevailing.

As each carriage reached the reviewing stand the ladies in it rose, and smilingly saluted the President with deep courtesies. The President was kept on his feet most of the time returning these greetings. He apparently enjoyed the experience hugely. Each lady carried a bag of rose leaves for use as confetti and after saluting the President, she threw a handful of soft petals into his box. Before the parade was over he was ankle deep in rose leaves.

This afternoon the ladies of the President's party went to Pasadena and took a drive there, while the President made a trip to the National Soldiers' Home, near Santa Monica. It is 18 miles distance and he made the journey in electric cars. Three thousand of the President's old comrades of the civil war greeted him there. The old soldiers gave the President a remarkable demonstration. Mr. McKinley made an address.

Los Angeles, May 10.—During the visit of the Presidential party to the soldiers home much excitement was caused by the discovery that Secretary Wilson and Charles A. Moore had lost their pocket books. Moore a minute after he discovered his loss saw a man picking the pocket of other men in the crowd. A detective arrested the pick-pocket. On his person was found the purses of Wilson and Moore, besides several other pocket-books well filled. It is believed this thief has followed the Presidential party all the way from Washington.

Early Rising.

"Pat," said a manager to one of his workmen, "you must be an early riser. I always find you at work the first thing in the morning." "Indeed, and O! am. sor. It's a family trait, O! m thinking." "Then your father is an early riser too?" "Me father, is it? He rises that early that if he went to bed a little later he'd meet himself getting up in the mornin'."

FLIGHT ENDS UP IN SUICIDE

BANKER POLLOCK FOUND DEAD IN SEATTLE HOTEL.

Burned all His Papers and Fired a Bullet Through His Brain, but a Tailor's Mark Revealed His Identity.

Seattle, Wash., May 8.—A man, believed to be R. N. Pollock, the missing bank president from Cleveland, Ohio, ended his life here today in the Hotel York by sending a bullet through his brain. A razor, a two ounce box of rough on rats, and a phial containing 100 tablets of aconite were found at hand. All papers belonging to the man had been burned before committing the deed.

Pollock arrived here Monday and registered as James Fisher. He failed to appear during the next day and his room was finally broken into. Lying in a reclining position the body was found, and the coroner was called in. The deceased had not stirred after firing the fatal shot. No clew was obtained in the room, but the name of R. N. Pollock was found sewed on the inside of his coat, placed there by a Cleveland, Ohio, tailor.

Pollock appeared well dressed and had $30 in money in his pocket. He looked to have been thirty years of age, with a light complexion and wearing asmall brown mustache.

Cleveland, May 8.—R. N. Pollock, who killed himself in Seattle today, was the President of the Cuyahoga Savings Bank and Building Company of this city. He was thirty-eight years of age, married, and had three children. He was the promoter of the bank which closed its doors last Monday. Pollock disappeared ten days ago and had not been definitely located until news of his act of self-destruction reached this city this evening.

The condition of the bank is as yet a matter of conjecture, its books being in the hands of a receiver, who is making an examination, and whose report is expected in a day or two. The bank had deposits to the extent of $340,000. This sum of money was not in the bank's possession at the time. Rumors of its weakness were feared, and to avoid the inevitable outcome of a possible immediate demand for such a large sum of money, the directors decided to suspend business, and a receiver was appointed.

Other Cleveland bankers, it is said, would have gone to the assistance of the Cuyahoga Savings Bank if they had been asked. The bank was not prominent in the city's financial institutions, being located in the residence district, and its depositors were small ones. The receiver of the bank stated tonight that Pollock did not take the money that was in the bank at the time of his leaving the city, and it is believed that, knowing that a crisis was near, he sought safety in flight.

The United States Carbon Company which went into the hands of a receiver on account of the failure of the bank, is said to be not seriously involved, and it is expected to resume operations soon with increased facilities.

The Deutschland Beats all Records.

New York, May 9.—The Hamburg-American steamship Deutschland, which arrived in port today, made 587 knots of 676.61 statute miles from noon May 8, to noon today. An hourly average speed of 24.53 knots was maintained throughout the whole 24 hours. This is a record that has never been equalled by any vessel.

HILL'S EARLY PROJECTS

What Alex Mitchell Thought of Him and His Proposed Railroad.

Milwaukee Wisconsin.

James J. Hill, the great railway and steamship magnate who is now so prominently in the transportation world, was at one time a Mississippi river steamboat "runner", and as such was well known to one of the early day railway men of Milwaukee. In view of the present position occupied by Mr. Hill, it is interesting to listen to stories of his labors as an agent for the steamboats which plied up and down the Mississippi, along in the 50's.

About 1857 James J. Hill could be seen daily about the docks at Dunleith, Ill., drumming business for the boats bound for St. Paul, St. Louis and other river points at a time when these boats did the bulk of the business, because railroads were few. The old Chicago and Galena road, now a part of the Northwestern system, ran to Galena in those days and connected with the boats for St. Paul and different points, and young Hill, who had come down from Canada a short time before, was doing a good business as solicitor of passengers for these boats. He would get a commission on every passenger he secured for a particular line. He was there when the Milwaukee man, who is still here, met him.

Later he went to St. Paul, and there became interested with the late, Commodore Kitson, at that time secretary of the Hudson Bay Fur Company, and the two bought out a line, broken-down railroad which ran 30 miles northwest from St. Paul into the forests. This road was the nucleus of the present Great Northern system. For some years Kitson and Hill operated it chiefly for hauling cord wood to St. Paul, where they sold the wood at a big advance.

About this time Hill began to dream of a big railway system under one management to the Pacific Coast. He brought his well-laid plans (plans which have since been fully carried out by him) to Milwaukee and laid them before the late Alexander Mitchell, president of the Milwaukee system. It was stated by a Milwaukeean who first met Hill on the Mississippi river that the enterprising railway dreamer laid before Mr. Mitchell a general outline of the conditions as they actually exist today in the operation and management of the Great Northern. He told Mr. Mitchell that if he would unite with him and get the financial backing necessary they could build, equip, control and operate a line of railroad from St. Paul to the Pacific Coast, and that it would be a winner. He talked to the great power of the Milwaukee road for an hour or more, during which Mitchell said little or nothing. He only listened to young Hill, and this is the answer the man from St. Paul received when he finally finished: "Jem, me boy you are a fool."

That ended the negotiations with Mitchell. Hill evidently did not agree with the great magnate of the Milwaukee, for he kept pegging away and today, as a result of his indomitable perseverance, he is one of the greatest railway men of the country.

Ex-Governor Taylor Will Remain in Indiana.

W. S. Taylor, former Governor of Kentucky, who is charged with complicity in the murder of Senator Goebel, has purchased the residence property at 2121 North Delaware street from former Judge Hackney, of the Supreme Court, and his friends announce that he has received assurance that Governor Durbin will not honor a requisition for his return to Kentucky is said to have come indirectly through the executive office, but not from the governor himself, but it is so direct that Mr. Taylor feels that there is no probability of his being surrendered to the Kentucky authorities, and he has invested $9,000 in a home in one of the most slightly residence districts in the city.

WORTH REMEMBERING.

Failure to Realize the Benefit of Trees to Towns.

Harper's Magazine.

It is almost as difficult to persuade a city magnate that a tree is a benefactor to the town as it is to convince him that a high school building has any nobler purpose than to be shown by real estate agents as an attraction to hoped for additions to the tax list.

Nevertheless his education has begun, although he may know it, and some day we shall find him promising to plant trees in Yorkville, or on Murray Hill, or in the "Kitchen," or the "patch," wherever votes may be had in return. Little by little he will come to the realization of the fact that a tree is a vote-catcher, just as Tammany now feels, with somewhat more of dimness than is desirable, that a clean street on the East Side is a "good thing." When we get the city magnate so far we have got him as far as we can push him or drop him; if he goes further it is of his own enlightened nature.

Here are some axioms on this subject which will do the city magnate no good, but which will be readily accepted by the intelligent voter:

1. A narrow tree-shaded street is better than a bare wide one.
2. A walk under trees is more improving than a trolley ride under telegraph and telephone poles.
3. The man who cuts down a tree except for the purpose of saving a better one, is an enemy of the community.
4. A city magnate who will not save a beautiful tree when he can is of much less value to the community than the tree which he destroys.

Another discouraging circumstance is the lack of intelligence which the city magnate displays in planting and in taking care of trees when he comes to them. The trees in our new parks, for example, are dying or growing into shapelessness for lack of attention. When we plant a tree in a city we jam a flagstone against it, so that its own growth cuts its bark and injures it; we plaster the ground about it with asphalt, so that the earth cannot be freshened with moisture or enlivened by sunshine. We therefore feed it on sewerage, its poor roots bunch themselves together and become anaemic, while the top languishes. They do these things better in Paris.

HENRY M. FLAGLER SUED

Claim for $100,000 Damages for a Wife's Affections.

New York, May 8.—The Herald has an item that Henry M. Flagler is defendant in a suit in the Supreme Court of the State of New York the plaintiff being E. C. Foote, who demands $100,000 damages for the alienation of the affections of his wife, Helen.

In the same court Mr. Foote has also brought suit for divorce from his wife. He names as co-respondents Henry M. Flagler, John H. Maiden, and J. O'Bannon. Mrs. Foote married Mr. O'Bannon after obtaining a South Dakota divorce, the validity of which is now attacked. She is about 28 years old. Her beauty of face and figure cannot be denied. She has had a host of admirers, and her toilets have created a sensation in Paris and in London as often as in New York.

Mr. Foote is an agent in an express office. He charges that Mr. Flagler gave to Mrs. Foote cash, or its equivalent in marketable securities, notably Standard Oil certificates, to the amount of $400,000. He also alleges that Mr. Flagler gave to Mrs. Foote a valuable residence in East Fifty-seventh street, near Madison avenue.

Scrofula

Scrofula is an unwelcome legacy, but one which the children of blood poisoned parentage must accept, with all its humiliating consequences. It is an inheritance that makes one poorer; that brings wretchedness and disease instead of health and riches, for the child whose ancestral blood is tainted with Scrofula or the loathsome virus of Contagious Blood Poison is unfitted for the arduous duties of life so long as any of the transmitted poison remains in its veins. Scrofula manifests itself in various forms; swollen glands about the neck and throat, catarrh of the head, weak eyes, hip bone disease, white swelling and offensive sores and abscesses are familiar symptoms, attended usually with loss of strength, poor digestion and pale or bloodless complexion. The skin is sometimes most dreadfully affected, eruptions breaking out on all parts of the body. Scrofula destroys bone, tissue and flesh; no part of the human system escapes its withering, benumbing touch. Parents whose blood is poisoned by their own misdeeds, or who themselves may be suffering for the sins of some remote ancestor, must restore their own blood to its normal purity and strength, or they cannot expect healthy, robust children. S. S. S. cures Scrofula, like other diseases of a deep-seated, constitutional character, by restoring life and vigor to the profoundly poisoned blood, and the rich, strong blood that is carried to the swollen and diseased glands absorbs and destroys the tuberculous deposits, and the painful, disfiguring sores and other evidences of Scrofula disappear.

S. S. S. should be begun immediately upon the appearance of the first symptoms, or where there is a known predisposition to Scrofula. Our medical department will be found of great help to those who are struggling with this wasting disease of heredity or any other blood trouble, and we invite you to write us. Should you or any member of your family need advice, our physicians will cheerfully give the information you desire, for which we make no charge. Book on Blood and Skin Diseases free.

OUR NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Unpleasant Condition of Washington
Up to the Opening of the Civil War.

When Washington last beheld the city which bears his name, shortly before his death in 1799, it was a straggling settlement in the woods, almost wholly devoid of streets, with 30 or 40 residences—most of these small and uncomfortable—and an unfinished capitol and president's house. Indeed, Washington long remained a sparsely built, unsightly city and a comfortable place of residence. For more than a generation its growth in population was less than 600 a year—a rate of increase that would now put to shame almost any village in the land; and so late as 1840 De Bacourt, the French minister, could write that Washington was "neither a city, nor a village, nor the country," but "a building yard placed in a desolate spot, wherein living is unbearable."

The opening of the civil war found it a dirty, straggling, unkempt town. The water supply came from pumps and springs; there were neither street cars nor paved streets; no fire department, no police force, worthy of the name, and not a sewer in the city. Eastern bluffs lined the river bank; stables and wooden fences surrounded the white house; the present departments were not half finished, and the parks and commons were given up to weeds. But all this was changed by the struggle of the union, which doubled the population of Washington and brought in freedom and northern enterprise, but more important still, by a thousand moving and glorious associations, endeared the capital to the people of the whole country. Then came its remaking by Shepherd and his associates. Now it is truly an imperial city, and the judgment of Washington and the genius of L'Enfant have been vindicated.

HIS PROPHECY CAME TRUE.

Verification of a Harvard Professor's
Prediction as to Our Present Population.

Edward Wigglesworth, "Hollis professor of divinity at Cambridge," in a little pamphlet published in the portentous year of 1775, must have had a correct idea of the prosperity of this country during the century just closed, as he predicted that the population of the "British American colonies" in 1900 would be 80,000,000, says the National Magazine.

Included in this estimate was Nova Scotia, now the Dominion of Canada, which with its last recorded census result of 4,800,000 added to the 76,000,000 of the United States fulfills almost to the letter the accuracy of the Wigglesworth prophecy. And this somewhat remarkable forecast was not based upon any species of guess work, but upon a well defined and clearly constructed mathematical theory, which, reduced to plain words, can be best described in the language of its author: "The British-Americans have doubled their numbers in every period of 25 years from their first plantation."

Taking this statistical fact as a basis for his calculations the Harvard divinity professor constructed a system of reckoning the increase of a country's population which history has shown to be as correct as his method was simple.

Assuming that the 1775 population was 2,500,000, Mr. Wigglesworth estimated 5,000,000 for 1800; 10,000,000 for 1825; 20,000,000 for 1850; 40,000,000 for 1875 and 80,000,000 for 1900, and the record of the United States census since its initial taking in 1790 shows substantially these figures, as follows: Census of 1800, 5,308,000; 1825 (1820), 9,633,000; 1850, 23,191,000; 1875 (1870), 38,658,000; 1900, with Canada, 81,000,000.

AS ONE MAN TO ANOTHER.

You know my pa, he always says,
When we have company,
A-pattin' me upon the head:
"This is my son," says he;
"Pr-raps the future president,"
And then, with wink an' grin,
He'll give my head another pat,
Or pinch my cheeks an' chin.

The other day my pa an' me
Went out into the shed.
Pa—well—he had his hick'ry switch,
An' I just up an' said:
"Pa," but my voice was awful weak.
Says he: "Speak up, my son."
"When I am president," says I,
"I'll 'member what you've done."
An', here I shouted big an' loud,
"I'll lock you up in jail!"
Then I just turned my back myself,
Expectin' him to whale.

But first I knew, I heard him laugh;
He laughed until he cried;
Then he sat down on the wood
An' pulled me to his side.
An' talked to me a long, long while 'Bout when he was a boy.
An' all the games he used to play,
"Ol' cat," an' "Siege of Troy."
An' now my pa an' I are chums,
Pa's broke his switch in two.
When I think what I said that day
I'm shamed, all through an' through.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM. QUICK RELIEF FROM PAIN.

All who use Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism are delighted with the quick relief from pain which it affords. When speaking of this Mr. D. N. Sinks, of Troy, Ohio, says: "Some time ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism in my arm and shoulder. I tried numerous remedies but got no relief until I was recommended by Messrs. Geo. F. Parson & Co., druggists of this place, to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. They recommend it so highly that I thought I would try it. I bought a bottle. I was soon relieved of all pain. I have since recommended this liniment to many of my friends, who agree with me that it is the best remedy for muscular rheumatism in the market." or sale by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

GLORIOUS NEWS

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help; but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved,—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils, and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion, builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by C. E. Holton, druggists. Guaranteed.

CAUGHT A DREADFUL COLD.

Marion Kooke, manager for T. M. Thompson, a large importer of fine millinery at 1658 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, says: "During the late severe weather I caught a dreadful cold which kept me awake at night and made me unfit to attend my work during the day. One of my milliners was taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a severe cold at that time, which seemed to relieve her so quickly that I bought some for myself. It acted like magic and I began to improve at once. I am now entirely well and feel very pleased."

A TESTIMONIAL FROM OLD ENGLAND.

"I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the best in the world for bronchitis," says Mrs. William Savory, of Warrington, England. "It has saved my wife's life, she having been a martyr to bronchitis for over six years being most of the time confined to her bed. She is now quite well." Sold by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

WINE OF CARDUI

WOMEN WHO WORK.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 12.
Though only 19 years old, I suffered from pains and female troubles two years. Last spring I got so bad I had to quit work. I had to support myself, and could not afford a high-priced doctor. I got one bottle of Wine of Cardui and that made me feel better. Have now used several bottles and am well. My mother used the Wine for Change of Life and was greatly relieved.

WINE OF CARDUI

Many girls and women find it necessary to earn their own living in various kinds of employment. Their work is often so hard and confining that the health breaks down. Their delicate constitutions are unfitted for tiresome tasks. Weakness nearly always makes its appearance in the peculiarly delicate womanly organs. Constant standing on the feet, and coming and going at the beck of a superintendent or foreman, induces falling of the womb, leucorrhoea, headache and backache. The pay of women workers is often so notoriously small that when sickness comes they have no money to engage skillful physicians. To them Wine of Cardui is truly a blessing. It cures them of their ills at a small cost, and they can act as their own physicians: No doctor can do as much for "female troubles" as Wine of Cardui.

FRIDAY, MAY 10.

It is as it should be that in the municipal election of this week the towns throughout the State elected officers for two years. Elections have heretofore been almost wholly for a single year, and each recurring spring a big fight, usually over nothing was gone through with. These fights, when not productive of actual evil to the various towns, did no good, and it is some pleasure to know that they will come now only half so often.

The Democratic majority which has gotten in the saddle in Charlotte are proving to be rough riders.

THE COST OF A BOER.

This extract from the New York Journal certainly gives an interesting view of England's effort to conquer the Boers, and shows that she might have proceeded on a much cheaper scale.

When the English budget was introduced somebody said that every Boer killed had cost $5,000. The estimate was generally accepted and commented upon without examination. The truth is, as a moment's reflection will show, that the figure is ridiculously low. The British have certainly not killed 10,000 Boers. It is doubtful whether they have killed 5,000. If it has cost them $175,000,000 to kill 10,000 Boers, that is $75,000 per Boer. If only 5,000 have been disposed of the butcher's bill amounts to $150,000 apiece.

There were less than 40,000 Boer families in the two republics when the war began. England could have given every family $20,000 to keep quiet without spending more than she has paid for fighting.

Suppose England would have offered each of these families the sum of $20,000, the leaders may have been without fighters, since every war of this kind is more or less a war made by the leaders. The same article quoted from gives some further figures which show how the costs of wars have increased;

The Boer republics, whose combined population is less than that of Detroit or Milwaukee, have given the British Empire the most costly war it has ever had in its history in the same space of time.

This week England is borrowing $300,000,000 to pay a mere instalment of the cost of the Boer war.

The British national debt practically began in the reign of William III, and the entire amount borrowed in that reign including the support of an eight years' war with France was $60,000,000.

The four years' war of the Spanish Succession added $115,000,000 to the British national debt.

The nine years of war from the beginning of hostilities with Spain in 1739 to the end of the general war of the Australian Succession in 1747 called for borrowings to the amount of $145,000,000.

The great seven years war involved $290,000,000 of new debt.

The eight years' war of the American Revolution, including wars with France Spain and Holland, required loans of $580,000,000.

The greatest amount borrowed by Great Britain in any one year in the wars of the French Revolution was $150,000,000, in 1795, repeated in 1797. The greatest amount borrowed in any one year during the Napoleonic wars was $198,000,000 in 1813.

The Crimean war of three years increased the national debt by $195,000,000.

The Boer war has lasted a year and a half. In that time England has had to borrow more money than she ever borrowed in any two years of any war in her history.

Moreover, she has spent more than we spent in our Civil War in the same length of time. Our most expensive year was the fiscal year 1865, when we had over a million soldiers under arms. In that year our war expenses, military and naval were nominally $1,153,307,834.13, but as they were paid in depreciated paper whose average value was 49 1-2 cents on the dollar the actual gold cost of the war for the year was $570,887,377.89. England has paid over $750,000,000 in gold for a year and a half of Boer fighting, and expects to pay a billion before the job is done.

Much of this cost is due both to the expensiveness and the destructiveness of modern explosives. The old time way of fighting burnt less money and killed more people.

A QUESTION WHICH SHOULD BE SETTLED.

A dispatch from Washington a few days ago, which reads as follows, is most interesting:

The question of how the Maine was destroyed in the harbor of Havana and where the responsibility rests for its destruction will be adjudicated before a legally instituted tribunal or judicial character. The Spanish treaty claims commission, having presented for its consideration two claims for indemnity growing out of the blowing up of the Maine, the whole question will be opened up before that tribunal.

It was probably not contemplated by any one when Congress passed the act authorizing the commission and defining its powers that this question would be brought before it. The filing of these claims for indemnity, however, involves the question of responsibility for the disaster, and evidence upon all phases of the case must be gone into in order that the claims may be passed upon.

Ex-Senator Chandler, who is at the head of the commission, said today that it was strongly his impression that the cases were properly before the commission and that the whole case would have to be gone into in order to determine the question of liability. Mr. Chandler said that until he read the briefs it had never occurred to him that that particular question was before it.

As the case of the Maine now stands the universal assumption in this country is that the Maine was destroyed through treachery, and the calamity is credited to a crime. This conviction was a strong incentive to the war between the United States and Spain. By our people a crime is laid at the door of Spain, though the report of the naval board examining the wreck merely concludes that the explosion was from the outside of the ship and did not attempt to fix the responsibility, and Spain indignantly repudiated the more or less direct charge upon her national honor.

Now the question will be considered under the rules of evidence by a judicial tribunal, a decision one way or the other being reached. It will not necessarily follow, however, that complicity in a crime will have to be proven against Spain in order to affirm the validity of the claims for indemnity, since responsibility through lack of proper care in assigning the ship her anchorage, with out any criminality on the part of Spanish officials, might be deemed sufficient to warrant indemnity.

A novel feature of the case is that the United States, by the assumption of the indemnity claims under the Spanish treaty, becomes the defendant in these cases, and in the ordinary course of legal proceedings would resist the establishment of the responsibility.

A decision averse to the claimants in this case, however, would serve as a vindication of Spain and remove one of the popular motives for the war upon that country which has already been concluded disastrously to the Spanish government.

Most certainly the majority of the people of this country believe that some responsible Spanish official connived at the destruction of the Maine, while no one believes that the government had anything to do with it. Certainly the charge should be taken from Spain if she was in no wise responsible, and it is fortunate that these claims have come about in such way as to make it necessary to at last settle the question. But it certainly is queer that they are so arranged that the United States must be the defendant and attempt to prove the innocence of Spain.

ADVERTISING COMMENT.

By THE HUSTLER.

When to Stop Advertising.

An English journal requested a number of its largest advertisers to give their opinions concerning the best time to stop advertising, and the following replies were received:

When the population ceases to multiply, and the generations that crowd on after you and never heard of you stop coming on.

When you have convinced everybody whose life will touch yours that you have better goods and lower prices than they can get elsewhere.

When you stop making fortunes right in your sight solely through the direct use of the mighty agent.

When you can forget the words of the shrewdest and most successful men concerning the main cause of their prosperity.

When younger and fresher houses in your line cease starting up and using the trade journals in telling the people how much better they can do for them than you.

When you would rather have your own way and fail and take advice and win.

You can't always judge of a family's importance in town by looking at the clothes-line.

GEN. RANSOM'S SPEECH TODAY

HEARD BY A LARGE CROWD

BANNER WAREHOUSE FILLED TO HEAR HIM.

His Appearance Greeted by Cheers from the Veterans Present—The Gate City
Band's Excellent Music—All the Veterans to Receive the Cross of Honor.

Owing to the heavy rainfall this morning the exercises at the Banner Warehouse were postponed until 11 o'clock. At that hour a large crowd gathered to hear the speech of Gen. Matt. W. Ransom. As the venerable warrior entered the building accom- panied by Col. J. T. Morehead and Mayor W. H. Osborn, one of the Veter- ans stood up and swinging his hat around his head, shouted, "Three cheers for General Ransom." The cheers were given by the veterans with a will, and at the conclusion Gen. Ransom bowed his appreciation.

Seated on the platform, and in ad- dition to those who accompanied the General to the stage, were Revs. L. W. Crawford, E. W. Smith, and Saun- ders Guignard, Major C. M. Steadman, and Dr. Charles D. McIver.

Dr. L. W. Crawford made the open- ing prayer, invoking the blessings of the Almighty upon the occasion, those gathered together, to hear the speaker, and on the speaker himself. At the conclusion of the prayer the Gate City band played Dixie, which was receiv- ed with much applause and cheering. This was followed by a solo by Miss Lucy Glenn, "Old Massa's in de Cold, Cold Ground." The hearty applause with which this was received, was showed the appreciation of the audi- ence.

the appreciation of the audience. Col. J. T. Morehead arose and in a few well chosen remarks introduced the speaker of the day, General Ran- som. His words were well received, and the rising of the General was the signal for a burst of applause.

In beginning his speech Gen. Ran- som said: "Mr. President, Ladies, Fel- low Citizens, I don't know quite how to speak to you today. I wish I had great power to tell the truth, do jus- tice to the great cause which has brought you here. You are assembled, daughters of North Carolina, and you mean to perform a sacred duty of gra- titude to these noble men who fought in the war between the States, and you would do it if the face of the world were set against it. Who can think of this day and this service and feel his heart not thrill and swell with pride? And in doing the work and perform- ing this service, the noble daughters are writing and have written the most beautiful page in all history."

In a clear and forcible manner the speaker showed the disparity of the forces arrayed against each other for four years, the North with five men where the South had one; the resour- ces of the great Northwest from which the Union army drew supplies, and the barren condition of the Southland. And not only this, but the resources of the world were at the command of the North, because they had money and ships while, the South had neither.

"We have no cause to blush?" said Gen. Ransom, "we should be proud of our achievements." He spoke of how when the prisons of the North were filled with Southern men, and the prisons of the South filled with Northern men the President wrote to General Grant telling him to exchange prisoners, and how General Grant replied that if they exchanged prisoners they could never hope to whip the Confederates. He recounted step by step, and battle by battle, the march of the army of Nor- thern Virginia from the beginning of the struggle to the last days at Ap- pomatox. His story of the battles and the mention of the warriors long since dead, caused the worn and scarred veter- ans of those conflicts to lean for- ward in their eagerness to lose not a word, and their eyes to glisten with moisture at the story.

In closing he spoke of the Spanish war and of the first American who gave his life for the Union, Ensign Worth Bagley, of North Carolina. He also spoke of the death of Lieutenant Shipp, also of North Carolina and stated that the bond between the States of the Union was more closely cemen- ted by the death of these officers.

He paid a glowing tribute to the wo- men of the South, saying that "my faith and hope is in the noble women to pre- serve and maintain the dignity of the South."

At the conclusion of the speech a double quartette sang "I've gwine back to Dixie." Those who sang were Mrs. Dr. Banner, Misses Minnie Gorrell, Nan Wood, Lucy Glenn, Messrs. Walter Ri- denhour, A. H. Alderman, G. A. Ran- kin, and Dr. J. S. Betts.

Col. Morehead made the following statement, for the Daughters of the Con- federacy:

"The Guilford Chapter of the Daugh- ters of the Confederacy wish to bestow the cross of honor on every Confede- rate veteran within their reach. For which purpose they request them to as- semble at the Academy of Music at ten o'clock on the third of June, the birth- day of our immortal leader, Jefferson Davis. The Daughters look upon this as a great and loving privilege. The entire audience then adjourned (!!! "Carolina", and were dismissed with prayer.

The procession was then formed and marched to the cemetery where the graves of the Confederate dead were decorated. On their return the veter- ans were served with dinner in the Banner Warehouse.

This afternoon at half past four o'clock Gen. Ransom addressed the students of the State Normal College.

THE WEATHER.

Greensboro Talent.

We are proud of the showing made today in our Memorial exercises. In addition to other things we wish, to add that Greensboro displayed local talent of an exceedingly high order, and in this connection we wish to say a few words in hearty and most de- served praise of our band. In person- al appearance, in the class of music, and in the excellence of rendition the band is an honor to Greensboro.

Much is due to the excellent train- ing of Mr. F. O. Lawson, whose un- tiring efforts have made the band what it is. We think that the Gate City Band is by far the best band in the State.

THE LONDON MARKET.

Stock Exchange Opened Wild But Afterwards Quieted.

By Wire to The Telegram. London, May 10.—The stock market opened wild and fluctuating. Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul opened at one hundred and fifty and advanced sharp- ly to one hundred and sixty-five, nearly twenty two dollars over the New York parity. Louisville and Nash- ville were six and a quarter better, At- chison six higher, and Union Pacific two and three quarters. Northern Pa- cific was quoted at hundred and thirty seven. After the first flurry prices re- ceeded slightly, the tone becoming quiet.

The Probable Reason.

THE PANIC IN LONDON.

Wild Scenes in Throcmorton Street—A Flying Wedge Falls To Break a Way into Short- er's Court.

London, May 9.—Not in the memory of the oldest stock broker in London has there been such a panic as prevail- ed this afternoon in America. At the close of the stock exchange hun- dreds of dealers endeavored to struggle into the narrow confines of Shorter's Court, where outside dealings are done in efforts to raise or reduce, as the case might be, Americans to New York parity. Suddenly there developed a terrific slump in Union Pacific, which was knocked down twenty points in as many seconds. St. Paul suffered almost as badly. Large and small brokers rushed to the scene until Throcmorton street became impassable.

The rain poured down but the ex- cited crowd paid no heed to it. Parties formed themselves into flying wedges in endeavors to force their way into the centre of Shorters Court, at which spot the principal dealing was done, and all sorts of conditions and prices were shouted at the top of the opera- tors' voices. Down, down, went Amer- icans. The leading houses sent urgent orders to buy or sell, but found it al- most impossible to have the orders exe- cuted. Railroads of every description were quoted at rock bottom prices, and steel and other securities fell in sym- pathy. Without rhyme or reason a reaction set in. Up and down went Americans. After about half an hour of this panicky speculation a more rea- sonable feeling prevailed, and stocks rose to within a few points of their price when the stock exchange closed. But long after the usual hours hun- dreds of stock brokers, most of them drenched to the skin, traded in the hope of getting clear before tomorrow's open- ing.

THE IDEAL EDITOR.

Some of the Qualities that En- ter Into His Makeup.

You hear talk of the "ideal newspa- per." It is, says an exchange, like the flower that never withers, the bird that never alights, the lands where sunlight never fades—it only exists in the imagination of the sucker who we are told the elements consume, says the Potter Democrat. Writing from the standpoint of a country editor if you have ever been in his shoes, you know he is the repository of the se- crets of the community none of which he has ever divulged. He must pub- lish a paper chuck full of local news, whether anything happens or not. His judicial mind must be far superior to the district judge, and give him point- ers in instructing the jury. He must discourse with equal fluency upon the silver question and Farmer Jones' Jer- sey calf, china painting and Poland- China pigs, preserved peaches and the preservation of saints, foreign wars and local strike, justification by faith and justification by type, the doctrine of election, the election returns, the doings of the last synod and the details of prize fights. The receipts of church socials and the squabble in the town council must be equally familiar to the versatile mind.

With all this he must wait on the delinquent subscribers, discount the bill of the patent medicine fakes, stand off his wash bill, always go well dress- ed, pay the printer on Saturday night whether a cent has come in or not; write free puffs, teach the city admin- istration how to run the city and be content with $20 a year for printing the proceedings—when it is worth $250, never ask for any honor but help oth- ers to get them, boom the local states- men who owes him three years' sub- scription—in short, be all things to all men, make no mistake in dates, take the cussings of the community and never cus back. This is the ideal edi- tor and his paper is a daisy. We never saw one.

A CATHOLIC JUBILEE.

Closing of the Century Celebration in Old Rome.

Elaborate and Impressive Ceremonial Known as the Closing of the Holy Door and Its Significance.

Many ceremonials took place in Rome in connection with the close of the nineteenth century, but none was either more interesting or imposing than that incidental to the closing of the holy door at St. Peter's cathedral. The last year of the century is jubilee year in the Catholic church, as all Catholics and many Protestants are aware. Therefore 1900 was marked by many ceremonies in connection with the period. The opening of the holy door took place over a year ago, and the ceremonial of closing was observed last Christmas eve. Owing to the delicate state of the present pope's health, and in connection with the opening and closing ceremonies took place had been heated to the temperature of Leo XIII's private apartments to avoid any possibility of his holiness taking a chill, says a London paper.

The ceremony of opening the holy door is declared to be symbolical of the fact that the church is open to all men so long as they go there after a thorough and sincere conversion. When the pope opens the door the three knocks which he gives to it represent the three continents—Europe, Africa and Asia—to which the pope offers the treasures which he is the medium for dispensing. The three strokes also are looked upon as symbolizing the joy that the jubilee causes to the faithful of heaven, earth and purgatory. The pope, who is seated on a raised throne in front of the large door in the middle of the grand portico, remains stationary for a brief while until the prince of the throne presents a golden hammer to his holiness, which the latter takes in his right hand and, rising from his throne, goes and knocks at the holy door. His clergy follow him, each with a candle in his hand. His holiness, after knocking three times at the door, says in Latin: "Open to me these doors of justice!" Then the choir adds: "This is the door of the Eternal One, and the just will enter in," etc. After this the master masons knock down the wall which incloses the holy door, the wall being so lightly put together, however, that its four sides are held together but slightly, the stones of which it is composed not being cemented. Thus, no sooner has the pope knocked at the holy door than it falls without any resistance. The debris of the wall is distributed among the worshipers, who hasten to gather it in order to put it among their precious relics.

While this is taking place the pope reseats himself on the throne, but after the demolition is completed the penitentiaries of St. Peter take their brooms, clean the floor, remove the pieces of brick and mortar from the passage—which are not looked upon as material to be held in light esteem, since relics are made of them—and wash the moldings and all round the door with holy water. This work being finished his holiness once more descends from his throne, singing the anthem which opens with the words: "Hæc dies quam fecit Dominus," etc., which the choir continues to sing after him. Arriving at the holy door the pope recites some prayers, takes the cross, kneels before the door, intones the Te Deum, and, rising again while singing, passes through the holy door, his clergy following him. Everybody who can goes into St. Peter's to witness this superb ceremony or to take part in the vespers at the chapel. After the vespers the cardinals take off their robes and put on their red capes, accompany the pope to the door of his private apartments and then retire. After the morning mass on Christmas day his holiness goes to the lodge of the benediction, where he blesses the faithful in the form which is only used on the occasion of the jubilee.

The closing of the door is a very similar ceremony to the opening. The greatest solemnity is observed, and thousands of privileged pilgrims flock to the cathedral to be witnesses of what, except in rare instances, occurs but once in a lifetime. His holiness lays the first brick for the closing of the door, all the cardinals, monsignors and other dignitaries in Rome being witnesses of the operation. The bricks used for this purpose are about double the ordinary size, being covered with a thin layer of plate—in some cases of silver and in others of gold. They bear in relief the papal arms and the inscription: "Leo XIII. Pont. Max. Aperiuit et clausit."

A Precautionary Law in Vermont.

The Vermont custom of not hanging a convicted murderer until two years after the passing of the death sentence upon him is founded on the assumption that any possible doubt as to his guilt will be removed in that time, and all danger of putting an innocent man to death is thus eliminated.

NAME FOR KODOL.

The only instance on record when a postoffice has been named after a patent medicine, was last year, when in Wetzel county, W. Va., a new post-office was established and named Kodol, after the famous Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, manufactured by E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago. It had given such satisfactory results that the name was unanimously selected by the people for the new office and adopted by the department at Washington, D. C.

Tired

that's all. No energy, no vim, no vigor, no ambition. The head aches, thoughts are confused, memory fails. Life becomes a round of work but half accomplished, of eating that does not nourish, of sleep that fails to refresh and of resting that never rests. That's the beginning of nervous prostration.

"I was very nervous and so tired and exhausted that I could not do my work. One dose of Dr. Miles' Nervine quieted my nerves and drove away the lassitude. Seven bottles did wonders in restoring my health."

If people only knew what we know about Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, it would be used in nearly every household, as there are few people who do not suffer from a feeling of fullness after eating, belching, flatulence, sour stomach or waterbrash, caused by indigestion or dyspepsia. A preparation such as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which, with no aid from the stomach, will digest your food, certainly can't help but do you good.

All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it even if it cost $5 a bottle. Rock-a-Bye Baby

These are sweet words, but how much pain and suffering they used to mean. It's different now. Since Mother's Friend has become known expectant mothers have been spared much of the anguish of childbirth. Mother's Friend is a liniment to be applied externally. It is rubbed thoroughly into the muscles of the abdomen. It gives elasticity and strength, and when the final great strain comes they respond quickly and easily without pain. Mother's Friend is never taken internally. Internal remedies at this time do more harm than good. If a woman is supplied with this splendid liniment she need never fear rising or swelling breasts, morning sickness, or any of the discomforts which usually accompany pregnancy.

The proprietor of a large hotel in Tampa, Fla., writes: "My wife had an awful time with her first child. During her second pregnancy, Mother's Friend was used and the baby was born easily before the doctor arrived. It's certainly great."

WAYS OF TWO CHIEFTAINS. A NATURAL-BORN COURTIER.

Roberts and Kitchener, Heads of the British Army, Contrasted by a War Photographer.

A photographer who went to the front on behalf of the leading illustrated journals and has just returned related an anecdote the other day which very aptly illustrates the different characters and methods of those two great English generals, Lord Roberts and Lord Kitchener, says the London Free Lance. He (the photographer) was provided by his employer with a special tarpaulin-covered cart and a couple of mules for the transport of his apparatus, and, needless to say, the name and style of his paper was writ large all over it. During those fierce days at Paardeberg preceding the surrender of Cronje there was a big run on the ambulance wagons, of which, owing to the rapid British advance, there were none too many. Proceeding cautiously one day with his cart and mules to a spot favorable to snapshotting a few pictures, the artist was suddenly confronted by an orderly who signed him to stop and spoke as follows: "Lord Roberts presents his compliments and would be glad of the immediate loan of your cart for a couple of hours to convey a wounded trooper to the rear."

Of course there was only one possible answer to such a request. The photographer hastily climbed down and evinced in the rapidity with which he undid his tackle how much real pleasure it gave him to comply. But that was not all. At the expiration of the two hours the orderly again galloped up and said: "Lord Roberts presents his compliments and would be glad if you would extend the loan of your cart for a further two hours." Absolutely flushing with pleasure, the artist could do nothing but blurt out his readiness to lend his cart to so courteous a commander for just as long as he should be pleased to retain it. Promptly at the expiration of the time named, however, the cart and mules were brought safely back, along with an expression of thanks from the commander in chief for the assistance rendered him.

But now mark the difference in the case of "the man of iron." The very next day a precisely similar emergency arose. This time, however, Lord Kitchener himself rode up, accompanied by a troop of lancers. Acting evidently upon orders just given, two of the troopers sprang from their saddles, one of them seized and held the mules and the other proceeded with the utmost dispatch and without so much as a look at the astonished artist to undo the fastenings at the back of the cart and unload the tackle. "What is it, my lord?" gasped the photographer, helplessly, from the box seat. "Quick, man, get down and lend a hand. Sorry, but we must commandeer you for ambulance," was the reply he received. And before he could quite realize the situation the two mules had been "outspanned," his traps strewn about the ground and his cart attached to two mounted troopers and was thundering over the veldt. As to when, where or how it would be returned to him was left entirely to his imagination, as Kitchener and his staff immediately galloped away without couching a word.

Glazed Carrots.

Boil 12 small carrots in salted water until tender; drain, cut in slices cross-wise and saute slightly in butter. Add one tablespoonful each of butter and sugar, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper, and a hint of nutmeg to half cupful of boiling water, and stir until dissolved; lay carrots in shallow baking pan, pour liquor over and bake in hot oven until nicely browned. —Ladies' World, New York.

How a Youthful Son of Ex-Comptroller Trenholm Astonished the Diplomats.

Few men stand higher in the financial world of New York than William L. Trenholm, who was comptroller of the currency under President Cleveland. He is from the south and has always been a man of distinguished social qualities. He belongs to one of the best families of Charleston, S. C., and his home is the meeting place for the brilliant southerners who come north, says the Chicago Chronicle.

It is said of him that no one man in New York receives more letters from the entire south asking for positions than Mr. Trenholm, and that no southerner ever appealed to him in vain; that a dinner or a luncheon at the Trenholm house is in itself an opening for their new life.

A few of the eminent men of New York were talking of this the other day and chaffing Mr. Trenholm—who was present—about it. A Washington statesman said: Trenholm impressed people in the same way when he was comptroller of the democratic administration. To illustrate the family aplomb he told the following story:

One New Year's day in Washington the youngest son of the house, a precocious boy, distinguished himself by gathering the visiting cards from his mother's table, ordering a hansom and making a round of visits at the most notable houses, sending in the first card that he picked from the bunch. When the butler at the English embassy announced the Chinese minister, Master Trenholm walked in with perfect aplomb and made a courtly South Carolina bow to his dumfounded hostess.

As the youngster was so serious and his manner so perfect no one thought to laugh. He was handed tea, and, bowing low to the ambassador from Great Britain, he backed out of the door and drove to the house of the secretary of state. There he happened to send in a card of the secretary of war, and so on until he had made the rounds, calling on the different women he knew.

Sequel to a Dream.

A Paris merchant dreamed of his daughter who died several years ago, and next morning, with his dream still mournfully haunting his memory, something brought to his mind that it was one of the days on which the municipal lottery was open. To the lottery, thereupon, he went, being a man of sporting instinct, and his dream suggested the venture. His daughter having died at the age of 24 years, 13 days, 4 hours, he selected these three numbers to bet upon, and two of the three proved highly lucky. One on which he had laid 88, 4d. brought him 250 times his stake, or £100, and the other 4,250 times his stake of £1 12s. 6d., or £6,802.—London Tit-Bits.

Siberian Banks Get More Latitude.

The Russian minister of finance has accorded the Russo-Chinese bank and all its branches in East Siberia the specially valuable privilege of the free purchase of gold dust and nuggets, without demanding from the seller any proof of origin, says a St. Petersburg correspondent. Up to the present this purchase of gold has been strictly prohibited by the Russian government, and the concession is intended to paralyze the secret sale of this gold to other countries. The coming heavy purchases by the bank will strengthen the gold reserves in the Russian imperial bank, which have been greatly depleted by the expenditure over China.—N. Y. Sun.
